IIT-JEE (Joint Entrance Examination)

The new pattern of JEE aims to create an umbrella through single combined entrance exam for the admission to over 2500 Engineering Colleges (Govt. + Private) in the country. It minimizes over 50 different Engineering Entrance Exams to one.

JEE body decided to conduct a Joint Entrance Examination from the year 2013 for admission to the undergraduate programs in Engineering in two phases, i.e. JEE (Main) and JEE (Advanced). The first 1, 50,000 candidates (from all categories) based on their performance in JEE (Main) will qualify to appear in JEE (Advanced) exam. Admissions to IITs will be based on category-wise All India Rank (AIR) in JEE (Advanced) subject to conditions that such candidates are in the top 20 percentile categories. Admission to NITs will be based on 40% weightage of the performance in Class XII board marks (normalized) and the remaining 60% weightage would be given to performance in JEE (Main) and a combined All India Rank (AIR) would be decided accordingly. The normalized Qualifying examination marks will be based on the position of the candidate in the Board (i.e. his/her percentile score). The percentile score a candidate gets in his/her board will mainly contribute to his/her normalized marks. The weightage of normalized qualifying examination marks is only for deciding ranking of JEE (Main) which will be used for admission to all Centrally Funded Technical Institutions (CFTIs)/ NITs/IITs but excluding IITs.

If a State seeks to admit students in the Engineering Colleges affiliated to that State Universities then that State requires separate merit list to be provided based on relative weightage adopted by the states, then the merit list shall be prepared with such relative weightage as may be indicated by the State. The examination will be conducted in the Regional Languages of the State(s) on the requests of such State(s).

Benefits of JEE

JEE conducts a single entrance exam for all engineering aspirants in India to take admission into the Engineering/ Science institutions. There is no need to apply for several engineering entrance exams. The students will be free and relaxed after appearing in a single exam. Owing to this, stress-level will be considerably reduced. Avoid multiple exams which pose the challenge of preparing for different syllabi and patterns. It is a substantial financial savings for parents. A simultaneous preparation of School/Board examinations and JEE will yield better results. Introduction of JEE eliminates unnecessary wastage of time, efforts & money.
